Influence of miR-185-3p on the proliferation and invasion of cholangiocarcinoma. Cholangiocarcinoma (CCA) is a bile duct cancer with extremely poor prognosis. MicroRNAs (miRNAs) are involved in cancer cell regulation. In this study, we determined the roles of miR-185-3p in the regulation of growth and invasion in CCA. The expression levels of miR-185-3p were determined by quantitative real-time PCR in 40 CCA patients and 20 healthy controls. The miR-185-3p mimics and inhibitor were used to regulate its expression. The CCA cell line, QBC939, was cultured and transfected with the miR-185-3p mimics and inhibitors. The effects of miR-185-3p on the proliferation, colony 79a2804d6b
